Promotions to Form II.

The following pupils of the high school have been promoted into Form II. Names are in order of merit: D. Campbell, T. Lang, R. Megrund, E. Belyea, A. Horswill, C. P. Johnston, J. Veistrup, R. C. Woods, H. Booker, E. Dowsett, P. Ratchford.

THE BAND.

On occasions such as yesterday the absence of the town band is much noticed. What a pitiable spectacle we must present to visitors when they arrive here to spend the holidays. Instead of Rat Portage furnishing the entertainment it seems very much as if the visitors do the entertaining. We have little hesitation in saying that the pleasing strains of the Winnipeg band gave more enjoyment to Rat Portage citizens than any other part of the day's proceedings.

It is unfortunate that the town council cannot see its way clear to make a grant to the citizens' band. The money would be well spent and the citizens would applaud the action of a councillor who would push this matter at once.

In the event of the council doing nothing it would be well to get get up a public subscription, as is frequently done in eastern towns. The business men are daily held up for subscriptions for various objects, some worthy and others inadvisable, but in every case a respectable sum is obtained. The citizens' band is an organization that should be encouraged and kept up to the highest efficiency, and we believe if some one will take the initiative in this matter there would be little difficulty in raising sufficient funds to satisfy the demands of the members of the band.

We have already a large number of summer visitors here, and the probability is that within a couple of weeks we will have more campers on the islands than ever before in the history of Rat Portage. It is a distinct advantage to the trade of the town to have them here, yet absolutely nothing has been done to provide entertainment for them.

If we wish to realize our fond dreams of making this one of the greatest

DOMINION DAY SPORTS.

Splendid Celebration—Excellent Land Sports—Rough Water For Aquatics.

The completion of the thirty-fourth year of the confederated Dominion was celebrated in Rat Portage with great enthusiasm. The morning broke bright and beautiful, and throughout proved an ideal Canadian summer day. There was too much wind, however to make rowing a pleasure and in the afternoon the shell races were declared off. However this was made up to some extent by the sailing races which proved very interesting.

The land events in the morning were the best ever held here and great credit is due the firemen who engineered this part of the day's program. Every event was brought on time and things went with a swing. Following is a list of the winners in the different events:

Men's bicycle race, 5 times around the block—1st, Robt. Parsons; 2nd, A. Smith.

Ladies' bicycle race, twice around the block—1st, Lena Savage; 2nd, Maud Savage.

Boys' foot race, under 10 years of age, 50 yards—1st, Roy Caughey, 2nd, J. Hooper.

Girls' race, under 9 years of age, 50 yards—1st, Magdelene McPhail; 2nd, Minnie Carrier.

Boys' race, over 10 and under 14 years of age, 75 yards—1st, A. LaBlue; 2nd, Geo. Archambault.

Girls' race, over 10 and under 13 years, 75 yards—1st, Edna Carslake; 2nd, Ella Gamble.

Fat Man's race, 200 pounds and over, 75 yards—1st, W. Johnson; 2nd, J. B. Davies.

Ladies' race, 50 yards—1st, Louise Mcdiish; 2nd, Minnie Carrier.

Putting the shot, 16 pounds—1st, Wm. McVeigh; 2nd, Geo. Bruce.

100 yard dash, open to all—J. H. Meil; 2nd, J. Fraser.

Sack race, 50 yards—1st, Bert Langstaff; 2nd, H. Hilliard.

Standing long jump—1st, Ws. Griffith; 2nd, Jas. Fraser.

Firemen's race, open to C.P.R., Rat Portage, Lumber Co. and Norman fire brigades, 100 yards—1st, W. J. Palmer; 2nd, J. Sindel.

Three-legged race, 100 yards—1st, J. H. Neil and J. Fraser; 2nd, J. Sindel and E. Poirier.

Smoking race, 75 yards—J. Neil; 2nd, A. Greenwood.

Schmatr's and McClelland's crews, the winners of the first and second heats, rowed off and were very even all the way down, when a hundred yards or so from the finish the two boats collided and the referee ordered the race to be rowed over again. In the next race McClelland won out easily.

The winners of the third and fourth heats rowed off and Hooper won by four lengths.

This left McClelland's and Hooper's crews in the finals and a hot race followed. The two crews rowed side by side up to the flag but McClelland's crew had the better course picked and turned the flag ahead of their opponents and kept the lead all the way down, finishing with about a half a length of clear water between the two boats. This left McClelland a winner with Hooper a good second.

The double shell races did not come off as the water was too rough. They will probably be rowed some day this week.

200 Homeless.

Sturgeon Falls, Ont., June 30.—Fire in Cashe Bay, a few miles north of here did $50,000 damage, destroying numerous houses, rendering 200 people homeless. The lumber mills of George Gordon & Co. and Shearer & Brown also suffered severely, but were insured.

Labor Member Expelled.

Melbourne, Victoria, June 25.—Amid scenes of excitement in the crowded galleries, the Federal Assembly today, by a vote of 61 to 17 expelled Mr. Findlay, editor of a local labor organ, for republishing in his paper the article from the Irish people of Dublin, dated May 10, violently attacking King Edward, which caused the seizure of the last mentioned weekly periodical by the police of Dublin, Cork, Limerick and other towns of Ireland.

THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

About 25,000 robin redbreasts are exported from England annually.

Liverpool, with 99 people to the acre, is the most crowded city in England.

There are ten battalions in the British army that wear the old Scotch kilts.

The national debt of the United Kingdom is five per cent. of its wealth.

Australia's first measured wool clip was 20,000 tons, in 1821. This has now risen to 2,700,000.

The Columbian ice fields in the Canadian Rocky mountains cover an area of at least 110 square miles.

The first lord of the admiralty is better course and won. The crews were:

MINING NOTES.

In justice to our many subscribers at a distance we must apologize for the absence of mining news in this issue of THE MINER. On account of the holiday yesterday our space has been taken up with other matters. Our next issue, however, will be replete with some interesting news relating to the mines of the district.

J. H. Castor, of Buffalo, accompanied by a couple of gentlemen from that city, are in town. Mr. Castor is going to Eagle lake district to do some work on an excellent mining claim which he owns there.

The Toronto Telegram Comments on the Discussion in the General Assembly.

Toronto, June 27.—The Toronto Telegram says, under the heading "Politics in the Church: The debate in the general assembly at Ottawa over the admission of Rev. J. C. Madill to Presbyterian Church of Canada shows the depth and strength of political prejudices in this country."

The Winnipeg presbytery wished to utilize the aptitudes of Mr. Madill in the mission work. The local knowledge of this western presbytery would have prevailed in favor of an obscure soul with all the alleged defects imputed to Rev. J. C. Madill.

The change of taste in theatrical amusements and the opportunity for wide awake and up to date management to forge refined minstrelsy to the front inspired the Richards & Pringle firm of managers to organize the biggest minstrel combination in America, and embody in it the best forms of vaudeville and fragmentary acts that would find ready favor with all classes of theatre goers, that they have succeeded in doing this is evidenced by the success of their big minstrel enterprise which is booked at the Hilliard opera house, Tuesday, July 2nd. The venture has met with phenomenal success, and from a modest beginning, some years ago, the company now ranks foremost and is the largest and best minstrel organization in America. Fifty performers furnish an evening's entertainment in which fun is plenty and of the good wholesome kind.

The Regatta.

The weather yesterday was of the ideal kind for sailing and the boats that entered all travelled at a great speed. Mr. Stone's boat "White Wings" sailed by A. Young, J. Wood and J. E. Bird won the yacht race easily. The skiff races and canoe race had no entries.

At two o'clock, although a heavy wind was blowing the rowing races were started. The shell race was called off owing to Winnipeg not being able to send down a crew to compete at the regatta. The first heat in the four-oared lapstreak race was won by about four lengths by McClelland, defeating a Winnipeg crew. The crews were:

Within six years the New Zealand Government has bought back of the original settlers 224,167 acres of land used for sheep runs, and 1,630 families have found homes on them.

Ants in Rhodesia.

As for the ravages of white ants in Rhodesia, it is no uncommon thing for the colonist, on returning from his day's labor, to find the coat he left hanging on a nail of his cottage wall, and the books on the table absolutely destroyed by these tiny marauders. Nor is this all. On awaking next morning you are astonished to see in the dim light a cone-shaped object rising from the brick floor a short distance from your bed, with two holes on the top like the crater of a miniature volcano. Upon closer examination you discover that the holes have just the size and shape of the side of your boots. Nothing is left of them except the nails, eyelets, and maybe part of the laces.—Rev. A. Lebeouf, in Zambesi Mission Record.

By His Doorscraper's Note.

The late Sir Frederick Gore-Ousely, professor of music at Oxford, was once going to call on a friend in London, and asked a fellow-musician the number at which he lived in a certain street. "I don't know his number," answered the other, "but the note of his doorscraper is G sharp." Sir Frederick went off, contentedly kicked the doorscrapers all down the street until he came to the right one, when he rang the bell and went in.

Printer and Preacher.

"Well, that's enough to try the patience of Job," exclaimed the village minister, as he threw aside the local paper.

"Why, what's the matter, dear?" asked his wife.

"Last Sunday I preached from the text, 'Be ye therefore steadfast,'" answered the good man, "but the printer makes it read, 'Be ye there for breakfast.'"—Glasgow Evening Times.

There was no pardon in the general assembly for Mr. Madill. He had dared to lead in the "P.P.A." and to oppose the Ontario government. That partisan variety of Presbyterianism which inspired the Westminster's attempts to whitewash the West Elgin infamy demanded vengeance upon Mr. Madill. The partisan Presbyterianism of a majority opposed Mr. Madill not as a politician who had fought for what he believed to be his principles against the interests of the Liberal party.

Still Doing Business.

The report of the closing down of the Clergue pulp mill at Sault Ste Marie which was widely circulated, and was regarded as an evil omen for those who were contemplating the erection of pulp mills is denied in toto by Mr. Clergue.

The reason assigned for the supposed shutdown, viz., that the smaller mills were able to run and spoil the market for the S.S.O. product, was, on the face of it, absurd, as there has been no sign of the demand for pulp being greatly outstripped by the supply. Mr. Clergue when seen in Montreal stated that the closing of the mill was news to him, adding: "Of course we have occasionally to shut down to make repairs, and were shut down for a day or two while our canal was being put in good order. But that was only for a day or two. We are now running the pulp mill to its capacity and find no trouble in disposing of all the pulp we can turn out. We are sending it to England, France and Germany and Japan. There is no danger of the mill being closed."

Enemies of Great Britain are not slow to suggest that the war with the Boers was started at the instigation of British capitalists for the furtherance of British moneyed interests. The sequel, however, does not bear out this contention. The British government has declared its intention of pursuing the war to a bitter finish and to find means to carry on operations, taxes have been imposed upon some of the most important moneyed interests of the old land. The war was a war of necessity. It was a carrying out of the imperial policy inaugurated by Disraeli and which he thought he saw abandoned by the people of Great Britain during the closing days of his life.

RAT PORTAGE, ONT., JULY 2, 1901

Western Australia's Premier.

Sir John Forrest has tendered his resignation as Premier and Colonial Treasurer to the state of Western Australia. His office has been notable in many ways. The only Premier the old colony ever had, beginning his services with the inception of independent responsible government in 1890, he has held on to the last, without a real change in the Ministry, until the colony has become absorbed in the Federal Commonwealth and resigns only to take the Ministry of Defence in the larger government. While there has been no change of the entire Ministry during 11 years, the personnel has changed, in some cases several times over, so that Sir John is the only one who has survived to the end. His policy has been unchanged, however, and he has continued, as he began, the master mind of the colony, retaining an overwhelming minority in and out of Parliament.

Gladstone's Advice to Young Men.

Be sure that every one of you has his place and vocation on this earth, and that it rests with himself to find it. Do not believe those who lightly say "Nothing succeeds like success." Effort, honest, manful, unfeigned effort, succeeds by its reflected action, especially in youth, better than success, which, indeed, too easily and too early gained, not seldom serves, like winning the throw of the dice, to blind and stupefy. Get knowledge, all you can. Be thorough in all you do, and remember that though ignorance often may be innocent, pretension is always despicable. But you, like men, be strong and exercise your strength. Work onward and upward, and may the blessing of the Most High soothe your cares, clear your vision, and crown your labors with reward.

HEART TROUBLE

BROUGHT ON BY EXPOSURE AND WORRY.

Capt. Geo. Crandell, of Lindsay, Tells How He Secured Release From This Most

LOYALTY IN THE BAHAMAS.

Effect on Natives of News of Ladysmith's Relief and Queen's Death.

"I don't know that I ever saw a greater contrast in a small corner of the world," said a regular winter visitor to the Bahamas, "than I witnessed in Nassau when the news was received there a year ago that Ladysmith had fallen, and when last January the report came that Queen Victoria was dead. London's riot of joy over Ladysmith was duplicated in a small way at Nassau. Shops were closed and the entire town took on a gala appearance. All the flags were flying, big and little ones, on every house front, and even in Grantstown every hut had its flag. Shortly after the news came a crowd started up the street with drums beating, flags waving, and children arrayed in holiday dress. Walking up Bay street I met an old negro woman. She had no shoes on her feet, her gown was tattered and torn, a coarse coffee sack apron was about her waist, on her head was a yellow turban, and between her lips was an old clay pipe. Across her bosom was pinned an English flag, for which she probably paid a ha'penny. I stopped her and said:—

"'Aunty, everybody seems to be happy to-day.'

"'Yes, chile,' she said. 'I don't know what dey's happy about, but dey tell me de Queen's happy and so is I.'

"In this speech the loyalty and devotion to England's Queen was shown. That very loyalty and regard for the Sovereign was shown when the news came that Victoria was dead. It was personal mourning that was seen on all sides. No matter how poor these subjects were each managed to secure a piece of black crepe or silk or woollen or cotton cloth, and men, women and children displayed the emblem tied about the left arm. Even the babies had bows of black on the left shoulder. As I stood in the cathedral listening to the "Dead March" and saw the wreaths of violets and lilies laid upon the altar, I felt that each of the mourners who crowded the edifice was grief-stricken, not because of the death of the Queen, but because of the death of his or her Queen.

"Strangely enough, many of the negroes feared return to slavery upon the accession of Edward VII. When the official proclamation was read they were very down-hearted. They are a simple-minded folk, and any change is disheartening to them. A proclamation always frightens them. It is full of big words to them, and is not comprehensible. It conveys no idea of change of something new, something different, and they dread it. Before I left Nassau, however, I heard many of the negroes singing 'God Save the King,' lustily enough."

COSTLY LONDON FOG.

Eight Hours of It Often Creates Half a Million Dollars' Damage.

A London fog is an expensive visitation. A day of it, counting the days at eight hours, is estimated to cost anything from £100,000 in hard cash. No small proportion of this goes to the gas and electric light companies, which have to supply about a third more power than usual. But there are also the railways. Fog-signalling is expensive. At Chapman Junction alone £50 has been spent by a single railway company during a day's fog in extra pay to the plate layers. When the red

KING AND RELIGION

STRICT OBSERVER OF THE CUSTOMS OF THE ESTABLISHED CHURCH.

'TIS DUE TO LOYALTY TO HIS OWN.

Never Attended Any Service on Sunday in His Entire Life Unless It Was Conducted by a Clergyman of the Religion by Law Established—Reads Service Himself.

A member of the royal household is authority for the statement that never in his entire life has King Edward attended divine service on the Sabbath, except when conducted by a clergyman of the Established Church. This may be said of many Englishmen, and is not due to prejudice against other religions, but to loyalty to their own. King Edward as a tourist has visited all the great cathedrals, Mohammedan mosques and Hindu temples in the world, and is familiar with all the famous churches of Europe. He has witnessed weddings, funerals and other religious ceremonies in Catholic and dissenting churches many times, but never on the Sabbath. Not even in Rome, where he once spent Easter Sunday, was he tempted to witness the impressive ceremony conducted by the Pope at St. Peter's, but went quietly to the little English Church, where he was one of a very few worshipers, explaining that he did so because he thought when members of the Church of England were in Rome and other foreign cities they should be more than usually particular to recognize and encourage their own form of faith.

No matter where he happens to be on Sunday—at sea, or at a German watering place or camping on the plains or in the mountains or visiting friends in the country—he has always observed the Sabbath in the strictest manner; and when there is no Church of England convenient or chaplain present he reads prayers himself at the appointed hour to as many of his companions as are willing to join him in the service. Nor does he ever travel on Sunday, except at sea. This has been the rule of his life, as it was that of his mother, the late Queen, and his father, the Prince Consort.

At Marlborough House in London and at Sandringham, his country palace, prayers are read daily in the morning, the members of the household, the servants and the guests being expected to attend, although not required to do so. The attendance is voluntary, but general. The King is not always present in London, but seldom fails to appear at morning prayers while at Sandringham. On Sunday he invariably attends morning services, in London at the Chapel Royal, or at the Church of St. Anne, Soho, and at Sandringham at the beautiful Chapel of St. Mary Magdalene, a quaint and vegerable structure said to be more than 400 years old, which was restored at his expense for the benefit of his household and tenants and is filled with beautiful memorial windows and tablets. The humblest laborer on the estate kneels beside the King and gives the responses with him, the only difference being that the Royal family have a separate entrance and a section of pews

BROUGHT ON BY EXPOSURE AND WORRY.

Capt. Geo. Crandell, of Lindsay, Tells How He Secured Release From This Most Dangerous Malady.

From the Watchman-Lindsay Ont.

In the town of Lindsay and surrounding country no man is better known or more highly respected than Capt. Geo. Crandell. Forty-seven years ago he was owner and captain of the first steamer that navigated the Scugog. Since that time success has crowned his life both on land and water. For forty-nine years he was a member of the Lindsay town council. He is now 73 years of age and enjoys the best of health, but it has not always been thus. Some years ago his calling began to tell upon his health, and his heart showed signs of weakness. His sufferings and complete restoration through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are best told by himself. To a reporter the captain gave the following story:

"Several years ago my heart began to bother me. At first I took little notice of it, but the trouble gradually grew worse until I had to summon medical aid. I suffered much pain and at times was attacked by smothering spells which caused me great distress. Frequently these spells attacked me during the night and it was with difficulty that I managed to breathe at all. I consulted several doctors, but their medicine failed to benefit me. I then tried a much advertised remedy, but this also failed to help me. I had always been fond of smoking, but I was in such poor health that a few puffs from a cigar would distress me so much that I had to give it up altogether. I grew worse day by day and began to think my end was near and that I would die from the trouble. Some time ago I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking one box I noted an improvement in my condition and so I continued their use. I kept on improving (I know I am as well and strong as I ever was in all my life before, and have not been bothered with the least sign of my former malady for months. I am now able to enjoy a smoke as I used to without feeling the least distress. All this I owe to that greatest of all remedies, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Rich, red blood and strong nerves are the keystone to health. Dr. Williams' Pink pills are the most widely known and praised of medicines because from first dose to last they make new, life-giving blood, and restore weak and shattered nerves, bring new health and strength to hitherto despondent sufferers. Do not take any substitute—do not take anything that does not bear the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around the box. Sold by all dealers or by mail post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cost of a Coronation.

It is interesting to see how the cost of William IV.'s coronation—which amounted to just over £40,000—was "built up." Here are the official items in the bill:

Their Majesties' household	£22,270
Office arms, King's herald and pursuivants	147
Orders for works, fitting up Westminster Abbey	12,086
Royal mint, coronation medals	4,826
Fireworks, keeping open public thoroughfare during night of the coronation	3,001

King Edward's expenses, of course, are expected to exceed these amounts.—Westminster Gazette.

A Slight Misprint.

"Well, that's enough to try the patience of Job," exclaimed the village minister as he threw aside the local paper.

"Why, what's the matter, dear?" asked his wife.

"Last Sunday I preached from the text, 'Be ye therefore steadfast,' answered the good man, 'but the printer makes it read, "Be ye there for breakfast."'—Glasgow Times.

Tapestries for Mrs. Langtry.

The Royal School of Art Needlework, in South Kensington, has been visited recently by numbers of fashionable people to see the wonderfully worked hangings for Mrs. Langtry's new theatre. Mrs. Langtry has discovered that the school gives real embroideries for the same price as that at which the upholsterers offer imitations.

The hangings are all of the empire period, with the fleur de lis and eagle of the first empire playing an important part in a scheme of decorations. The royal boxes are hung with mauve, embroidered with fleur de lis. The drop curtain is of rich green velvet, embroidered with dragons, also the work of the school.

A Slight Misprint.

"Well, that's enough to try the patience of Job," exclaimed the village minister as he threw aside the local paper.

No small proportion of this goes to the gas and electric light companies, which have to supply about a third more power than usual. But there are also the railways. Fog-signalling is expensive. At Chapman Junction alone £50 has been spent by a single railway company during a day's fog in extra pay to the plate layers. When the red light cannot be seen at a distance of a hundred yards the plate layers become fog signallers and for this they are paid a shilling a day in addition to their regular wages and 4d. per hour over-time, provided the over-time does not run into a second shilling.

Fog signals, like a cuckoo, are more frequently heard than seen, and like a number of things such as babies, cats and crickets, make an amount of noise altogether out of proportion to their size. The largest of those in use is scarcely bigger than a crown piece, and is a quarter of an inch in depth. The little tin box contains a teaspoonful of gunpowder and three percussion caps and is tied on to the rail by a red ribbon. It comes from Birmingham, costly and costs exactly a penny apiece. A hundred and fifty thousand or so are purchased by a big railway company in a year, and there are not many left over at the end of it.—London Chronicle.

A Story of Disraeli.

An English paper is responsible for the following delicious story: Soon after Lord Galloway entered the British House of Lords, he presumed so far upon his relationship to the Marquis of Salisbury as to write to Disraeli to ask for the office of Master of the Buckhounds, and he was favored with a reply which read somewhat as follows: "I am sorry that I cannot recommend you for the office of Master of the Buckhounds as Her Majesty dislikes having any body connected with the Royal Household who uses bad language. But I will forthwith recommend you for the Lord High Commissionership to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland." And, sure enough, Lord Galloway held the Lord High Commissionership to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, both in 1876 and 1877. How Disraeli must have chuckled over that note and over the appointment.

MACKAY OF FORMOSA.

BY REV. W. M. ROCHESTER.

About twenty-one years ago a missionary addressing the churches of Canada made his farewell words, "I am going back to my beloved Formosa. Never again shall I stand within your churches, or walk your streets, or look again into your faces. I return to the land of my adoption, to finish my work, and to die there." This prophesy was not fulfilled. Fourteen years rolled by and that stirring voice was again heard throughout Canada. Once more he spoke his farewells, and once declared that they should see his face no more. He returned to the Orient, and for almost seven years longer labored his missionary heroism. Then when this last word found utterance and the dearest wish of this brave heart of Jesus realized. On June 2nd, 1901 the precise message was carried across the Pacific to the agent of his church "MacKay dead." His work was finished, and his body now rests where he longed to be laid within sound of the surf and under the waving bamboo" of Formosa, beautiful isle of the sea.

The roll of the world's missionaries contains many great names, but among these few have higher rank for ability, devotion, and success than the name of Dr. George Leslie MacKay.

He came from a humble home in the township of Zorra, County of Oxford, Ont., a place that has a remarkable record for producing men. From the congregation with which the MacKay family was identified forty have gone forth to enter the ministry of the Church of Christ. Two books chiefly engaged the attention of young MacKay—the Bible and the Shorter Catechism. In the study of these he laid the foundations of spiritual and intellectual strength; and two men of great evangelistic and missionary zeal touched and strongly influenced his susceptible nature. One was Dr. W. C. Burns, the associate of the sainted Murray McCheyne of Dundee, Scotland. Burns visited Canada and greatly stimulated religious life wherever he went. The other was Dr. Duff, Scotland's most noted name for missionary enterprise, and fervor in the cause of Christ. While in Edinburgh MacKay studied under Duff, and had opportunity of familiar association with him.

Quite early in life he became a Christian, and soon he says those words, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature" made me a soldier of Jesus Christ. Soon, to become a missionary became the passion of his life.

Having completed the regular course of study for the ministry, he applied to the Foreign Mission Committee for appointment. In about a year's time, and when impatient of delay, he was about to turn to either the Church in Scotland or the United States, word came that the Committee had decided to send him to Formosa. Then he wrote, "I am ready to go to the ends of the earth, to the cannibals of the South Sea Islands, to the Hottentots of Africa, to the Fiji Islands, to the Jews, to the Roman Catholics, to the Greek Church, to the Mohammedans, to the Hindoos, to the Chinese, to the Japanese, to the Indians of the Rocky Mountains, to the Esquimaux, to the Siberian exiles, to the Red Indians of Canada, to the Negroes of the United States, to the Roman Catholics of Lower Canada, to the Heathen of Manitoba, to the Pagans of Prince Edward Island, to the Highlanders of Cape Breton, to the Lumbermen of Ottawa, to the Indians of Hudson's Bay, to the Icebergs of Labrador, to the Heathen of Nova Scotia, to the Roman Catholics of Quebec, to the Mormons of Salt Lake City, to the Pagans of Vancouver's Island, to the Chinese of San Francisco, to the Heathen of Oregon, to the Pagans of Alaska, to the Roman Catholics of Mexico, to the Heathen of Central America, to the Negroes of Jamaica, to the Heathen of Trinidad, to the Pagans of Demerara, to the Roman Catholics of Brazil, to the Heathen of Buenos Ayres, to the Pagans of Chili, to the Roman Catholics of Peru, to the Heathen of Bolivia, to the Pagans of Ecuador, to the Roman Catholics of New Granada, to the Heathen of Venezuela, to the Pagans of Guiana, to the Roman Catholics of Patagonia, to the Heathen of Cape Horn, to the Pagans of Terra del Fuego, to the Roman Catholics of Cape Verde Islands, to the Heathen of Madeira, to the Pagans of Azores, to the Roman Catholics of Portugal, to the Heathen of Spain, to the Pagans of Gibraltar, to the Roman Catholics of Italy, to the Heathen of Malta, to the Pagans of Ionian Islands, to the Roman Catholics of Greece, to the Heathen of Turkey, to the Pagans of Asia Minor, to the Roman Catholics of Egypt, to the Heathen of Arabia, to the Pagans of Persia, to the Roman Catholics of Abyssinia, to the Heathen of Soudan, to the Pagans of Timbuctoo, to the Roman Catholics of Algiers, to the Heathen of Tripoli, to the Pagans of Tunis, to the Roman Catholics of Morocco, to the Heathen of Timor, to the Pagans of Sumatra, to the Roman Catholics of Java, to the Heathen of Borneo, to the Pagans of Celebes, to the Roman Catholics of Philippine Islands, to the Heathen of Ladrone Islands, to the Pagans of Caroline Islands, to the Roman Catholics of Sandwich Islands, to the Heathen of Navigator Islands, to the Pagans of Friendly Islands, to the Roman Catholics of Fiji Islands, to the Heathen of New Hebrides, to the Pagans of New Caledonia, to the Roman Catholics of Australia, to the Heathen of New Zealand, to the Pagans of Tasmania, to the Roman Catholics of Ireland, to the Heathen of Scotland, to the Pagans of England, to the Roman Catholics of Wales, to the Heathen of Canada, to the Pagans of Rat Portage, to the Roman Catholics of Keewatin, to the Heathen of Rainy River, to the Pagans of Fort Frances, to the Roman Catholics of Emo, to the Heathen of Manitou, to the Pagans of Winnipeg, to the Roman Catholics of Portage la Prairie, to the Heathen of Brandon, to the Pagans of Virden, to the Roman Catholics of Carberry, to the Heathen of Moosomin, to the Pagans of Whitewood, to the Roman Catholics of Broadview, to the Heathen of Qu'Appelle, to the Pagans of Regina, to the Roman Catholics of Moose Jaw, to the Heathen of Swift Current, to the Pagans of Medicine Hat, to the Roman Catholics of Calgary, to the Heathen of Edmonton, to the Pagans of Athabasca, to the Roman Catholics of Peace River, to the Heathen of Fort Simpson, to the Pagans of Fort Wrangel, to the Roman Catholics of Sitka, to the Heathen of Fort Yukon, to the Pagans of Behring's Straits, to the Roman Catholics of Kamschatka, to the Heathen of Siberia, to the Pagans of Nova Zembla, to the Roman Catholics of Lapland, to the Heathen of Finland, to the Pagans of Sweden, to the Roman Catholics of Norway, to the Heathen of Russia, to the Pagans of Poland, to the Roman Catholics of Germany, to the Heathen of Austria, to the Pagans of Switzerland, to the Roman Catholics of Belgium, to the Heathen of Holland, to the Pagans of France, to the Roman Catholics of Monaco, to the Heathen of Corsica, to the Pagans of Sardinia, to the Roman Catholics of Sicily

Having completed the regular course of study for the ministry, he applied to the Foreign Mission Committee for appointment. In about a year's time, and when, impatient of delay, he was about to turn to either the Church in Scotland or the United States, word reached him in Edinburgh that his application had been accepted.

On the evening of Sept. 20th, 1871, an ordination service was held in St. James Square—then Gould St. Church—Toronto. There he was formally set apart to the ministry, and designated to China as the field of labor. One month more, and he was on his way, leaving home and loved ones behind, and facing Death into the distance unknown for the work to which he believed himself called of God. China was his destination, but to reach the great, dark land was his anxious object. Like Abraham, he was not knowing whither he went. But he went in faith, and on the evening of April 20th, 1872, in full view of a house in Tamsui, North Formosa, he could make this entry in his diary: "Here I am in this house, which we had all the way from the north in Zoera by Jesus, as directed in my boxes were labelled, Formosa, China." Oh, the privilege to lay the foundation of a church in unbroken ground! God help me to do this work in accordance with the Bible! Again I swear allegiance to Thee, O King Jesus, my Master! So help me God!"

Such began a missionary career of ... courage, consecration, ... of preaching the Gospel, ... enterprise, endurance, and ... has won our Church ... honorable thanksgiving to God, and ... pride in the memory of a noble ...

Now his little man of noble has gone. He has left us all an example of unselfishness and devotion. His appeals for surrender to the will and service of Christ will long sound in the ears of all who heard him. His simple, sublime life will always be an inspiration. Contemplating his career the old refrain will sound forth once more,

"Lives of great men all remind us
We may make our lives sublime,
And when passing leave behind us
Foot prints on the sands of time."

Commandant Kritzinger.

A trooper of Colonel Gorringe's, who was taken prisoner by the Boers and has since succeeded in making his escape, gives the following description of Commandant Kritzinger. He is a short, thick-set man, standing about five feet eight inches. He wears a moustache and habitually speaks in an extraordinarily loud voice. Taking him all round, he is rather a nice fellow, with a most gentlemanly appearance, and is not at all bad looking. His age will be about 35 or 36. He speaks English fluently, and seems to be well educated. He is a wealthy farmer in private life and has a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The Boers under his command seem to like him very well and have the utmost confidence in him. He is much more popular with his men than Dewet. Notwithstanding this, he is greatly respected, and his lightest order is obeyed with the most prompt alacrity and thoroughness. His second in command is a man named Schoepers, who is a "Kaapman." He has a secretary, whose name is Smit. The Commandant by the way wears no distinguishing mark of his rank. He is dressed in a khaki grey suit, with a double-breasted coat, and wears top boots. He goes about unarmed, the only weapon upon him being a powerful field glass resting on his breast, while a small leather satchel hangs at his side.

Fisheries of Canada.

The total number of fur seals taken by Canadian sealers during the year 1900 was 35,523.

The lobster plant alone is estimated to be worth $1,334,180. It comprises 858 canneries, dispersed on the seaboard of the maritime provinces.

The sealing fleet last year numbered 37 vessels, an increase of 11 over the previous year, and representing an aggregate of 2,641 tons register.

The salmon-preserving industry of British Columbia, comprising 69 canneries and representing a capital of $1,380,000, gives employment to 13,277 hands.

No less than 79,863 men were occupied in 1900 in exploiting the waters of Canada, using 5,506,760 fathoms of nets and other fishing gear, representing a capital of $10,000,000.

The total catch of fish in Canada for the year 1899, as reported by the fisheries department, amounted to $21,801,708, being an increase of $2,250,000 over the yield of the previous year.

... sheep were introduced. Then they began to pick the meat from the sheep skins hung out to dry. Later on they attacked the live sheep, and after a time, having discovered just where the kidneys were, devoured their laboring to no other part. There is no doubt of the fact that they take only the kidneys, and that every kea knows just where to strike a sheep the first time. Whether the birds talk to one another or not I do not know, but they certainly seem to work quite as intelligently as though they had language.

There are, however, but a few of the freaks which Dame Nature has created in the out-of-the-way part of the world. There are others so strange that I hesitate to mention them. This is, you know, the land of the marsupials, or pouch-bearing animals. You have all heard of the kangaroos who have a bag attached to the outside of their bellies in which they carry their young. There are not many such in New Zealand. There are father-lo be found in Australia, New Zealand, however, has a marsupial rats, and I saw at the college here in Christchurch a native rat much larger than a good-sized cricket which had a pouch on its belly in which it carried its young. This native is, perhaps the smallest marsupial known. It is a part of the biological collection of the college museum at Christchurch. ... was shown me by Prof. Marriner, the chief biologist. Another thing he showed me was a live lizard which he says is a descendant of a family of three-eyed lizards. This lizard is especially puzzling to the scientist just now. In the centre of the head is a third eye, which is clearly visible through the skin of the young animals, but which becomes thickly covered when it reaches maturity. Prof. Marriner says there is little doubt but that this eye was once used. The lizard he showed me is about a foot long, and, I should say, two inches in diameter about the waist.

I like the black swans of New Zealand. They are to be seen in all parts of the island, and you can shoot them anywhere along the lakes. They are even more beautiful than the white swans, their feathers looking like black velvet plush as they sail along the waters.

DEATH ROLL OF LABOR

13th Annual Report of the Ontario Factory Inspectors.

394 ACCIDENTS, 22 BEING FATAL

Carelessness a Favorite Explanation, But High Pressure Demanding Speed Is Surmised to Be a Much More Potent Cause of Accidents in Factories—Contrast Between Saving Time and Saving Life.

The thirteenth annual report of the Ontario factory inspectors, which covers the year 1900, shows that in spite of a general desire to comply with the law as to the safety of employes, there was a record of 394 accidents, of which 22 were fatal. Carelessness is a favorite explanation, but if one looks for the cause of the alleged carelessness it will generally be found in the high pressure that creates a demand for speed in modern industry. The workman is admonished by his foreman or employer to take sufficient time to insure safety, to make everything perfectly secure, and to avoid accidents. At the same time, he is admonished by the very conditions under which he works to sacrifice all things, safety included, to speed; for he knows that sloth is the unpardonable sin, that if his day's work does not show satisfactory results he will be forced into the ranks of the unemployed without further inquiry. Modern machinery, with its irresistible strength and unimaginable speed, is responsible for a long record of maiming and death. One victim was drawn against a mill saw by the carriage that conveys the logs, and died from his injuries. Another was caught by the casting on the moving bed of a metal planer, and was killed by being drawn under the stationary rest that holds the cutting tools. Both these accidents occurred with slowly moving machinery. Uncovered tanks of boiling water were responsible for two deaths, and another was due to scalding through disconnecting a live steam pipe. Three deaths resulted from unprotected gearing, but in one case the injury was comparatively slight, the fatal termination being due to blood-poisoning.

The danger of shafting has been emphasized by a record of four victims. One was oiling it while in motion, another was putting on a belt, a third was crawling under a shaft in a forbidden place, and the fourth was caught by a sheepskin that fell

Sir Thomas Galt Dead.

There is no doubt the death of former Chief Justice Galt, was directly attributable to the great heat. His strength has been for some time failing, and collapsed suddenly under the strain of great heat.

Johnson—Anderson.

The parlor of the Hilliard House was the scene of a very happy event on Saturday afternoon last when Capt. Albert Johnson, of the Sultana mine, was united in marriage to Miss Mathilda Anderson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. M. Rochester. The bride looked beautiful in a gown of white silk, and was assisted by her sister and a niece. The groom was assisted by C. A. Johnson. About forty invited guests were present, who showered congratulations and rice upon the happy couple after the ceremony. Part of the large dining room of the Hilliard House was curtained off and a sumptuous wedding supper partaken. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left on the Keewatin in the evening for a trip to Fort Frances, returning yesterday. They will take up their residence at the Siltana.

THE MINER and a host of friends join in wishing the happy couple a prosperous journey through life.

Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmons, of this town, on Saturday last celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, an event in life which few couples are permitted to see. The elderly couple were surrounded by a number of their children and grandchildren, and received congratulations from friends in town and also a number of letters tory results he will be forced into the ranks of the unemployed, without further inquiry. Modern machinery, with its irresistible strength and unimaginable speed, is responsible for a long record of maiming and death. One victim was drawn against a mill saw by the carriage that conveys the logs, and died from his injuries. Another was caught by the wasting on the moving belt of a metal planer, and was killed by being drawn under the stationary rest that holds the cutting tools. Both these accidents occurred with slowly moving machinery. Uncovered tanks of boiling water were responsible for two deaths, and another was due to scalding through disconnecting a live steam pipe. Three deaths resulted from unprotected gearing, but in one case the injury was comparatively slight, the fatal termination being due to blood-poisoning.

The danger of shafting has been emphasized by a record of four victims. One was oiling it while in motion; another was putting on a belt; a third was crawling under a shaft in a forbidden place, and the fourth was caught by a sheepskin that fell accidentally on a shaft and tightened about his hand as it was wound up. Two men were killed by coming accidentally into contact with circular saws, and one death resulted from a wound inflicted by a piece of lumber thrown from a saw in motion. Two other saw mill hands met with fatal accidents, one having been crushed by a falling log and the other killed by a blow from the lever of a saw carriage. A bursting grindstone caused one fatal accident, and the record of the power hoist includes one death coming under the cognizance of factory legislation. One accidental death is recorded as due to the falling of a lumber pile. A boiler explosion resulted in one fatality; and one death was caused by the explosion of a secret compound used in making fireworks. This is the record of deaths which come within the purview of the factory act, and of the long array of lesser accidents many were of a serious nature, resulting in permanent injury. As a general rule reasonable care has been exercised to prevent needless danger, but human ingenuity is not directed toward devising safeguards. A fortune awaits the man who will devise some means of cutting a few minutes off the time required to do the work, but he who devises a scheme for securing the safety of the worker must be content with the satisfaction of knowing that he has enlarged the scope of factory legislation.

THE EARL OF CADOGAN.

Appointed to Retain His Post as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

Earl Cadogan, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, whom the new Salisbury Ministry has decided to retain in his present position, was appointed to the place when the Conservatives went into power in 1895. The earl is 61 years old, and has been prominent in British politics since he succeeded to the title on the death of his father in 1873. He has been Parliamentary Under Secretary of State and for the Colonies, and in 1878 he was made Chief Secretary for Ireland. When the Conservatives secured the Government in 1886 the earl was appointed Lord Privy Seal, without a seat in the Cabinet. In the year of his accession to the earldom he married Beatrix, the daughter of the second earl of Craven. As wife of the Lord Lieutenant her entertainments in Dublin have been notable, and her social sway the most brilliant of any vicereine of Ireland. Lord Cadogan's salary is $100,000 per year.
